INTRO

If the US government is openly upset over their soldiers urinating on Taliban corpses, it is only like parents of a serial killer and mass murderer who cannot believe that their offspring just picked his nose. And this applies to other topics as well. We always only see the tip of the ice berg. So carry this V&C into the entire world! That is the only way it will become light and villains of all kinds will surface. Ivo Sasek

Greece's bankruptcy: elegant redistribution of debt

ham. The creativity of high finance and the finance oligarchs shows its true extend in the face of Greece's bankruptcy: The newly installed government introduced special taxes on property in a rushed law. The amount depends among other things on the size of living area (3-16€ per m<sup>2</sup>) and is collected with the next electricity bill. "In the case of non-payment of the tax the utility companies are bound by law to cut off the power for the affected building and not restore it until the debt is paid in full."

US desire for war

The US Congress will soon vote on a law that is intended to literally pave the way for a worldwide war without end and without clear enemies. The bill contains the so-called Sleeper Provision that makes it possible for the president to legally utilize military arms against every nation that is thought to harbor terrorists – regardless of whether there is an immediate threat or not. This new authority may also be applied to American citizens at any time in the USA itself. The law neither outlines a time frame for its validity nor other restricting criteria.

Does Gaddafi's execution mirror our western value standard?

tzw. According to US president Obama, Gaddafi's death marks a historic day. Meanwhile there are various videos of Gaddafi's death circulating through the Internet. While already wounded, the overthrown leader was beaten, pulled by the hair, ripped of his clothes, abused and executed. This approach was neither condemned in our media nor by our politicians. Humanity and justice aren't proven in parliamentary speeches, but in the way we treat our enemies. If we declare the sadistic battering of a defenseless man to be an historic event, we might ask ourselves whether we are so much better than the recently overthrown regime.

The business with the fear

Medicine is the biggest source of revenue worldwide. How much money the pharmaceutical industry earns by spreading fear alone can only be guessed. A formerly secret, so called „forties-study“ that recently became public conveys a terrifying picture. Within a test three groups of people were given drinking water contaminated by cholera bacteria. The first group drank the water without knowing that it was polluted. Surprisingly, no one from this group died from it. The second group was told that the water is contaminated after they had drunken it. Thereupon almost all of them died. The third group was given clean drinking water and was told that they consumed contaminated water whereupon more than half of the people died. Just like there is a positive dynamic trough joy

Does bank and office secrecy protect Swiss corruption?

rm. The bank employee who uncovered the contradictions in the foreign currency exchange of Hildebrand, the now resigned president of the Swiss national bank, is being rigorously persecuted (dismissal and prosecution)! Contrary to the offender. According to president Widmer-Schlumpf there was no need to end their cooperation.

When he resigns, Hildebrand will receive one further annual salary of close to 1 million Swiss francs. And this is where the cry of Esther Wyler, the witness accused of violating office secrecy in the case of a Zurich social service affair, carries massive weight: "If it is a question of morals, then neither do laws protect the whistleblower nor can administrations, authorities, economy or politics help: The corruption is too strong, own interests too dominant."

But then widespread disclosure would be a necessity!

of living there is also a negative one trough fear. Yet to turn this into a profitable business instead of helping is despicable.

The power-system medicine has to be held accountable urgently and thoroughly.

Ever more intense citizen surveillance - T

gf. The data protection officer Jörg Klingbeil warns of a total surveillance at the European soccer championship. At the presentation of the data protection report he criticized a planned face recognition trial at the stadium in Karlsruhe, Germany, as well as the comparison of lists of persons with anti-terror files. Unnoticed from the public eye there are many similar research plans. In INDECT, a project of the European Union, they are combining surveillance cameras, face recognition, software, drones and online research. This total surveillance is supposed to be tested for the first time in Poland and the Ukraine during the European soccer championship in 2012. In Germany this would be unconstitutional.

Peru installs 10 year ban on genetically engineered plants

pb. There is another way to handle genetic engineering. The plenary meeting of the Peruvian congress recently passed a ten year ban on the import, the farming, and cultivation of genetically engineered plants. Anibal Huerta, president of the agricultural commission of Peru, considered the ban necessary since the use of the biotechnology harbors immense danger. Genetically modified plants are responsible for a lot of disorder and many illnesses and destroy the natural variety. In many areas, the self-replenishing agricultural system was replaced with endless fields of genetically modified plants such as corn and soy beans. This is what Peru has stopped. The governments here should follow their example and finally stop the genetic farming!

The Hildebrand affair

ss. Philipp Hildebrand, the now resigned president of the Swiss national bank, is a member of the G-30, one of the international circles of the most powerful bankers and industrialist in the world founded by the Jewish Rockefeller Foundation. Under the yoke of this organization, Hildebrand burned through 50 billion Swiss francs with risky Euro purchases in 2011. Following that, he caused the defending of a minimum exchange rate for the Swiss franc, which in the case of the collapse of the Euro would mean the end of the Swiss franc. All at the cost of the people! In December 2011 it was revealed that Hildebrand's wife had, with his knowledge as the president of the national bank, brokered private deals and therefore used his decisions to cash in upon. This is a crime for which an average banker would get one to three years of prison for insider trading. Instead of reporting this neutrally the mass media began a diffuse image campaign for Hildebrand and a cold-blooded persecution of national adviser Christoph Blocher, who uncovered the fraud. Yet since the burden of proof became too heavy, Hildebrand had to resign on January 9th, 2012. When will we again prosecute the person who set the fire instead of the person who reports it?

Sexual freedom: American 'zoophiles' take on the language of equality

wa. The British historian Dr. Tim Stanley wrote on October 5th 2011 in "The Telegraph" about today's zoophilia. (zoophilia: sexual acts with animals, formerly known as buggery/bestiality). The article mentions some specific cases of zoophilia with animals: horses, dolphins, even a goat which suffocated in the act.

There are increasing efforts of the zoophiles to be recognised as a "sexual minority". Their aim: The term marriage must not only be used when talking about human partners, as long as both partners are connected with each other by mutual love and lifelong responsibility. The historian calls these arguments for "sexual freedom" and the "language of equality" "perverse logic", bizarre and immoral.

Legal protection instead of imprisonment

sk. After a series of judicial setbacks the defenders of the parent's right of education have now won a victory.

The Higher Administrative Court in Münster (Westfalen) granted parents the right to exempt their child from a film presentation with spiritualist contents for religious reasons. The school board had strictly refused this. During recent years several parents in Germany were imprisoned because they wanted to exempt their children from i.e. sexual education classes because of their profession of faith.

Let us continue to campaign that the laws anchored in the charter (German "constitution") may be applied again.

Vaccinations: License to Print Money?

"Initially cost reduction had also been an argument for vaccinations because prophylaxis is usually cheaper than therapy. But for a long time vaccinations have become cost drivers in the health system. For the pharmaceutical companies the vaccination system is like a license to print money. The interdependence of pharmaceutical companies, science and state is probably unique even in the health system and should make the officials of the health insurance companies and politicians and even more every patient listen up." Every year worth of vaccinations (e.g. against cervical cancer) earns the pharmaceutical companies the royal amount of about 150 million Euros.

Coward cell phone companies

rs. „Safe“ cell phone radiation raises doubts? It is known that there is a lung cancer type which is caused by asbestos. But the compensation claims of asbestos-affected patients were recently dismissed in court. Reason: Statute of Limitations. What these asbestos-poisoned people of the 80s are experiencing today threatens the mobile phone users in the near future. (In Switzerland the statute of limitations is effective after 10 years!) The operators Swisscom, Sunrise and Orange as well as the mobile phone manufacturer Motorola, Apple and Samsung supposedly learn from the asbestos story and wisely protect themselves and their business. They refuse to sign a limitation waiver which two liability lawyers presented to them. Why do you think? Don't they believe in the safety of their cell phone radiation themselves, as they always advertise this? This is highly disturbing!
