INTRO

Who enjoys looking at the unmasked truth about the dangerous situation the world is in today? Who really wants to deal with the distress which is already at our doorstep? (The last V&C issue reports about all of these things.) Yet it is absolutely essential – also for our survival – that every one of us confronts himself with these things. For we are dealing with human beings and even the worst sort are still “just” people. And they have only exactly as much power over us as we allow them to have. This is our big chance! We can tip the scales, as soon as nobody looks away anymore but instead allows himself be confronted with reality. This is how we create a new consciousness and a healthy attitude of questioning things, which more and more people will also adopt and eventually the few who are the cause of all this evil around us will be stopped. We will not win this battle any other way.

“You should never say ‘too late’. In politics it is also never too late. There is always time for a new beginning.”

Konrad Adenauer

An experienced doctor speaks out:

“What actually is a doctor? The doctor is a human being, a nice guy; and you’ll tell me: “I have a very good doctor.” Yes, he may even be a nice person – and you believe him. That is fine. But do not forget that this is merely the human side. The role which your doctor is in is something completely different. Your doctor has a degree in medicine which was completely controlled by financial interests of the big capital. [And much worse is that the content was fitted to the ideological goals of the “ruling elite”. Note by editor.] What your doctor learned there, was dictated by men pursuing those financial interests. This happened without his knowledge. All scientific papers, meaning the furthering of medical education, serve to better business and not the patient, the sick person. You have to understand this. We have the problem that we do not know who we are anymore, and that the true healing power is in us. That is why we give our power to outsiders, the doctor and medicine.”

Fatal “side effects” for parents of vaccinated children!

maab. After little Leon received a sixfold vaccination along with two others, totaling eight vaccinations (!) he had to fare with, there were serious side effects. His parents, fearing the death of their child, drove the boy to the hospital. What happened there is unimaginable. They did not even listen to the parents, but accused them of abusing their child. After the medical care, the little one was taken away from them and placed in a home. Only after the mother acceded to a court order forcing her to leave Leon’s father and uphold a strict restraint order, she was allowed to have her son back. But the father faces several years of prison for suspicion of child abuse.

Just or unjust?

Germany’s most well-known vaccination opposer, Angelika Müller (formerly Kögel-Schauz), who has investigated the case exactly, states that this is only the beginning of a very far-reaching scandal. An indication for this is a guideline for pediatricians requesting that doctors categorically declare vaccine side effects to be parental abuse in order to hide the true causes and to give the parents the fault.

If this unspeakable injustice is not stopped, parents of vaccinated children must in the future also count on these “side effects”: having their children taken away and prison time!

Feds want to earn with porn pi. On December 10, 2012, Fabian Thylmann, the man behind the biggest and most successful Internet pornography sites, was taken into custody. His own records state 300 million site visitors per month and annual earnings of 100 million US dollars. Other sources say that these web sites are visited by approximately 60 million people daily! That is 1.8 billion hits per month!

Thylmann has offered porn free of charge for everybody since 2006. What is shocking is that officials are not arresting him for spreading pornography among underage persons (via mobile phones and Internet), but because of tax evasion. So the federal government does not want to punish the crime, but earn a hefty chunk in this dirty business as well.

Violent operations of convicts in Syria

In September 2012, the Press-TV and Al-Alam journalist, Maya Naser, was murdered by a sharp-shooter in Damascus. One week before his assassination Naser was investigating the cruel operations of Turkish convicts in Syria. Naser began his researches after it became known that a lot of the rebels shot or captured in Syria were convicted criminals who were supposed to be sitting in Turkish jails, according to their sentences in court. Naser had the corresponding copies of passports, clear evidence supporting his claim.

A few of the shot or caught Turkish villains had connections to organisations close to Al-Qaeda. For example, one of these criminal rebels was the brother of the leader of the group that committed the attack on the HSBC-Bank in Istanbul in 2003. They left 67 killed and more than 700 wounded.

A now published document from Saudi-Arabia, revealing a source for terrorists operating in Syria, shows also the use of captives by Saudi Arabia and Turkey as part of the GCC*-NATO-strategy.

The evidences gathered by Maya Naser, as well as the accurate document from Saudi Arabia justify an investigation and a charge against Turkey and Saudi Arabia, as well as the NATO before the international criminal court.

Who will bring it forward?

*Golf Cooperation Council

NSA builds a new espionage center in the desert of Utah uw. Almost entirely unnoticed by the public, the American intelligence agency NSA is building a giant surveillance and espionage center in the desert of the state of Utah. Their goal is to save telephone calls, as well as Internet and email traffic worldwide and decode these with high powered computers. Additionally, they intend to collect personal data, such as Google searches and other digital footprints and evaluate them if necessary. Naturally the agent's focus lies on spying on bank data, communication between governments and officials, as well as the economy and military. Yet it must be clear to all of us that such a system basically leaves no more "private data." An ex-NSA worker was cited, bringing his thumb and forefinger together and saying, "This is how close we are to a turnkey, totalitarian state". From this point of view, it must ring an alarm to know that the Deutsche Telekom (Germany's number one telephone and internet provider) has given up its independent phone network and wants to switch over to pure Internet telephone services. This would make international access to every one of our phone conversations possible.

US Congressmen demand debates concerning intervention in Syria

ef. On December 19, 2012, US Congressmen Walter Jones, Charles Rangel and other speakers along with Jeffrey Steinberg, the head of the press staff of the Executive Intelligence Review, challenged President Obama in a press conference to first get explicit allowance before deciding whether to send American troops to Syria. A statement against military intervention in Syria from the "Veterans for Peace" was also distributed. Jones reminded of March 19, 2011 when Obama bombed Libya without consulting Congress. "We have a constitution which gives Congress alone the right to declare war," Jones stated. He then quoted from a letter six Congressmen together with Rangel and himself had sent to President Obama: "We are writing to you today with every emphasis on our demand that you do not lead the nation into war again without the consent of Congress. Your recently voiced threat of 'consequences for Syria if they use chemical weapons' reminds us alarmingly of the call to war against Iraq, in order to eliminate their weapons of mass destruction. (...) No UN or NATO resolution can supersede the authority of Congress which has been consciously given to the representatives of the American people."

Fukushima, a sign of the times?

uw/ef. Does anyone still think about what disaster and misery the flood- and nuclear catastrophe brought over Japan in 2011? Only few reports are heard here in Europe. An independent study proves the rise of infant mortality all across Japan in the second and ninth month after the catastrophe: May and December 2011. During these two months it was highest; especially, of course, around the nuclear power plant Fukushima. Cases of miscarriages and sterility are not yet recorded in this study, but a decrease in births is obvious. But this is just one consequence of the dramatic effects of a nuclear power catastrophe. These same ramifications could also be seen in June 1986 and February 1987 after the nuclear reactor catastrophe in Chernobyl, when radioactive precipitation, called fall-out, was registered even in southern Bavaria, Germany. We have to become aware, whereas Chernobyl was a single case, today potential "Fukushimas" are all around us... Only consistently making public background information and any intentions behind global events will save us from further "Fukushimas". Sources:
