INTRO

A lie does not suddenly become the truth by nicely garnishing it or letting it appear as particularly threatening. This fact cannot be changed, no matter how much creativity is shown by disease authorities, pharmaceutical companies, the WHO and similar organisations to invent new epidemics and diseases. A lie remains a lie, even if many people have been tempted and betrayed by it. Yet this evil game can only be played as long as people are informing themselves one-sidedly. Therefore take responsibility for yourself, your health and for others by reading the V&C today and pass it on to at least three others and win them to do the same!

Flu epidemic strikes primarily the vaccinated!

kee. According to official reports earlier this year a flu epidemic raged in the US. The city of Boston declared a health state of emergency and hospitals were opened up for the treatment of flu victims. According to the US health agency CDC this was the worst flu epidemic in ten years. In front of drug-stores and pharmacies, hospitals and doctors offices, all over the place bill-boards encouraged Americans to get flu vaccinations. It's particularly interesting that most of the flu victims had previously had a flu vaccination. This is probably also the reason why the CDC has not published any statistics so far. Who knows whether the health authorities in Germany and Switzerland have detected this context in this year's flu epidemic, too? In any case vaccinations should only be given voluntarily in the future as well.

Experiments with super-viruses for the next flu epidemic

er. Scientists want to continue the tests with a highly dangerous variant of the avian-flu virus which had been stopped one year ago. In controversial experiments in a laboratory at the Erasmus Medical Centre in Rotterdam scientists combined parts of the swine-flu virus with the genotype of the avian-flu virus and cultivated a highly dangerous pathogen. To achieve this the scientists contracted ferrets so often with the virus until the pathogen was able to infect healthy animals in other cages just by droplets transported by the air. According to experts this virus is able to cause pandemics with many millions of dead. In consequence of the justified fear that the pathogens might fall into wrong hands and evolve bioterrorism the project has been put on hold for one year. Now, one of the most popular American immune-biologist Anthony Fauci says: "The subject was strongly overemphasized back then. The time-out has helped to calm everyone down." Do such statements really calm us down or do they not draw to the question what is the actual intention when first dangerous killer-viruses are cultured only to be able to inoculate people allegedly for their own protection afterwards?

China: Organ Preying on Prisoners

erk. In Chinese cultural history physical integrity is of such importance that there are only very few voluntary organ donors. Yet in China the transplantation business is booming with its 600 transplant centers (more than 100,000$ can be earned with every heart or liver transplant). The short waiting-times for transplants in comparison to other countries is especially remarkable. Due to these disproportions the Chinese authorities admitted, after having been questioned by international experts, that the organs mainly come from executed prisoners. The actions of the Chinese government against the Falun Gong movement has have been criticized worldwide.

Falun Gong is a Chinese meditation practice founded on the principles of honesty, mercy and forbearance. The Communist party of China banned the practice of Falun Gong after the numbers of its followers increased to many millions and outnumbered the members of the communist party. Members of the Falun Gong movement who refuse to give up these practices are tortured and held captive in concentration camps and jails as living organ donors. Some of the witnesses report that the organs were even taken out of the captives alive. Afterwards the dead bodies are burnt to destroy all evidence. There is little coverage about these practices in the media. It is about time that this changes. As long as the transplant business is booming such criminal acts as "organ prey" from defenseless people seem to be inevitable. When will those responsible for these evil ties in politics, medicine and the pharmaceutical industry receive their fair punishment?

Scientists warn: Smartphones are lethal weapons

sv. Security experts from the IO-Active company regard smartphones as potentially lethal weapons. In a test they found out that smartphone signals can cause power surges of several hundred volts in pacemakers. A pacemaker patient would surely not survive that.

What only experts can do today can become possible for everyone in a few years: killing people by deliberately letting their medical devices malfunction using a smartphone. How will lawmakers and the mobile communication industry deal with this risk? Hush it up like all the other risks?

Business with dead body parts

bk. One fully recycled human body can yield up to 250,000$ in the US. Because few people in western Europe are willing to give their body parts for recycling after their death, some tissue traders get their supplies from eastern Europe, i.e. in Ukraine where there is great poverty and only superficial control. In many cases relatives don't even know what is happening with their dead relatives or they are signing papers to approve body-part removal under pressure.

Then the bones, sinews, and cartilage are cut out of the body and sold to Germany where they are cleaned, conditioned and processed further for cell- and tissue-replacements. Bones, for example, are ground to bone meal, human skin is dry-frozen cell-free. The end-products are officially classified as medication and are distributed to doctors, primarily in orthopedics, through the usual supply chain. Research by WDR (German Public Television) in this area has triggered a worldwide media uproar. Ukrainian authorities have started investigations against suspects in several cities and closed some mortuaries. After the report German authorities announced inspections in Ukraine. Will these inspections stop the trade? Would it not be more efficient to prevent the import of body parts into Germany instead and to inform the public about all the facts of tissue donation and the business with body parts?!

1.7 million embryos killed!

Since 1991 more than 1.7 million embryos have been killed in Great Britain.

This is almost half of the 3.6 million embryos which were produced in this period by artificial fertilization according to a report in the Catholic weekly magazine "The Tablet" on January 2nd 2013 in London. The magazine referred to a parliamentary request from the Catholic House of Lords member Lord David Alton. According to that, for each woman who carried out an artificial fertilization, 15 fertilized egg cells were produced on average. Since the beginning of the statistical recording, 1.4 million of these have been implanted into the womb. Only one in six has resulted in a pregnancy, a total of 235.480 cases. According to the magazine, Lord Alton criticized the fact that the embryos are produced in an industrial manner and discarded with "casual insensibility".

Are we still aware of the fact that every embryo possesses all the characteristics of a human being and is alive! The way we treat life in its smallest shape we will treat it in its full-grown shape – sooner or later!

Chad: 50 children paralysed after vaccination

pb./ab. The African country of Chad is among the countries known for having an increased number of meningitis cases. The main reason for this sickness which regularly claims many victims is the poor sanitary conditions in the country where there aren't even enough wells for the daily supply of water. Now a vaccination catastrophe occurred around the village of Gouro in the northern part of Chad. The vaccine "MenAfriVac" which was specifically developed for Africa has caused paralysis in at least 50 children and teenagers between the ages of 7 and 18. The vaccination for meningitis was still being tested and had not yet been officially approved and licensed. The children were forced to accept the vaccine, being threatened with exclusion from school and arrest should they refuse. The main exit of the school had even been closed for that purpose. As early as 24 hours after the vaccination the serious side effects started to show: headaches, hallucinations, vomiting and uncontrollable spasms where children jerked and salivated. Then the lameness set in. The father of two paralysed children complained publically about the fact that government representatives were offering money to the parents of these children to silence them on the issue. Yet why do organisations such as the World Health Organization and the Bill & Melinda Gates Foundation invest 571 million US dollars into such a controversial vaccination project? Wouldn't this money be spent more meaningfully for constructing wells that could provide clean drinking water? It is proven for a long time that better sanitary conditions lead to a decrease of infectious diseases. The international committee of the Red Cross estimates less than 3,000 dollars for a well. 571 million dollars could have built the people of Chad more than 19,000 wells! Isn't it time for a radical paradigm shift within all those organisations that share the blame for this situation?
