~ No. 1/14 ~

INTRO

With this edition we start in to the third year of V&C. Just as many people begin the new year with good resolutions, the V&C editorial office also goes into the new year with such. If we just focused on the amount of topics which need a clear analysis and a distinct countervoice, we probably would have to publish the V&C daily. Even though publishing up-to-date articles is on our mind, we nevertheless determined once more: The study of the V&C should first of all serve the purpose that more and more people develop to mature readers. I.e. they read "between the lines" of the mass media themselves, and thus realize the next step of the "salami tactic", which is hidden behind these news. – For this we need time to grapple with these sometimes hair-raising facts properly. Also in this edition you will find examples of how little by little, a lot of initiatives are put through which, presented in their entire magnitude, never would have found the majority's agreement. May we again count on your support with spreading the V&C in 2014?

Sect experts remain silent about Satanic Cult rb/rh. The modern sect of stars in Hollywood is called O.T.O., which stands for "Ordo Templi Orientis" or "Oriental Templar Order". If you look more closely behind the scenes, you will come across the Satanist Aleister Crowley who has significantly left his mark on it. With his "Magic of Sex" he propagated sodomy, animal sacrifices, drugs, the drinking of blood as well as other ritual, sexual and perverted acts, especially with children, which often ended up in their death ("sacrifice"). The members hope for power and further spiritual development from it. Considering these ghastly facts, you will expect that especially sect experts would sound the alarm and warn the population strongly. But this is not the case at all!

In an interview with the magazine "Friday 20 Minutes" the German sect expert Eckhard Türk and his Swiss colleague Hugo Stamm play down the Satanic Sect O.T.O even giving the impression that there is no considerable difference between it and other religious communities such as Jehovah's Witnesses. That not only shows how dangerous it is to trust the so-called experts, but also poses the question, why they very obviously lack a clear statement against this Satanic cult.

Persistence leads to the goal!:

Building permit for transmitter tower cancelled

hag. To protect the health of its population, the community of Mauern in Bavaria, Germany has been fighting for many years against an already planned almost 50 m high TETRA-radio tower. But the State of Bavaria has other plans. In order that police, fire department and rescue forces are able to transmit digitally all over Bavaria, 900 transmitter masts for about one billion Euros are to be built by 2015! Per site the annual maintenance costs would be 40.000 Euros, - not to mention the enormous health damage due to radiation! The WHO even added this type of radiation in May 2011 to the list of cancer-causing immissions, equivalent for example to DDT*. But a new movement is beginning in Bavaria: 217 communities in 68 counties put up resistance. In 120 communities council orders were given against the towers and 32 decided to stop further construction. Neither a decision from the district committee, nor a petition at the state parliament could bring the construction of the transmitter tower in Mauern to a halt. So the citizens took their last chance and enforced through the Administrative Court of Munich, that the building permit be withdrawn due to an "improper" site investigation. At least this is a partial victory of the citizens who unswervingly took a firm stand for the good of all. Well done!

Total surveillance:

Will a "chipped humanity" soon be a reality?

ap. According to RFID* chip developers, people soon will no longer carry their identification in their pockets, but underneath their skin. What many people consider to be a sinister surveillance utopia has been going on for quite a while: Worldwide there are already thousands of RFID implants. In 2004, 168 employees of the national information center in Mexico received a GPS implant underneath their skin, which was supposed to be irremovable (!). On one hand the employee gets access to high-security areas with the chip, on the other hand he can be tracked at every turn – not just in the workplace. The RFID implant allows the employee to be spotted anytime and anywhere via satellite.

From fear of kidnapping, wealthy parents from South America allowed their children to be equipped with RFID implants. For offenders, the implants were used instead of electronic shackles, to monitor their whereabouts. RFID implants are also in use in medical applications, such as in the surveillance of dementia patients. The chip is also made tempting for the youth. For example guests in the Baja Beach Club in Barcelona and the Bar Soba in Glasgow can receive VIP-entrance if they let themselves be "chipped" from a Disco-Doctor. Kirstie Ball, sociologist at the Open University Business School in Milton Keynes, England, says that the seed for this technology has been sown and that it will spread in the very near future... - if we do not gather together as one and stand against it with a clear NO.

ADHD* or unwanted alertness?

ah. "The ADHD patients in my clinic are exclusively boys", says Doctor Ulrich Fegeler, who is also spokesman of the Professional Association for Child and Adolescent Medicine. He actually considers "Attention deficit" to be a deceptive description. On the contrary, these boys are rather too alert. "Every impulse is given importance." In the past, there was a great need for people such as these who were able to notice more in less time than others did. "These were ideal fighters, hunters and guardians, with a special sense for their environment," says Fegeler.

However, in today's "western" society and "new" value system, these traditionally male characteristics are no longer welcome. Thus, one tries to suppress their unwanted behavior through therapy and medication. Doctors and pharmacists once more dance to the beat of power and money. Are we aware that these boys are not being treated properly?

Courageous Attempt:

Croatia defends itself against media-dictatorship

rus. The first December weekend 2013 the people of Croatia voted for the protection and preservation of families and against legalisation of the gay marriage. If a nation accepts a referendum with 66%, you might suppose that such a clear decision would be accepted by everybody in a democratic country. But far from it! "The defeated government now thinks about how to protect minorities against such discriminating initiatives in the future...", reports the Swiss Radio and Television Network (SRF1) on December 2nd, 2013. The Croatian media had already failed to inform fairly during the voting procedure and now even boycotted the jubilee celebration of the winning committee. To make a comparison: Almost daily the media report how the countries in the Middle East have been liberated from their alleged dictatorship to attain the highly praised democracy. But here, where a people gets its own way according to democratic law, they try in an almost dictatorial way to infiltrate this referendum. Who really has the final say in our so called democracies?

In Croatia the voting committee has reacted and withdrew the accreditation* from the most important media of the country including the Croatian public television! This courageous consistent answer to such injustice is just exemplary. Well done!

*Accreditation = Validation, authorization. In journalism accreditation means the admission of media representatives to certain events.

No to American surveillance

mbr. As proposed by the Swiss Federal Council, the FATCA Agreement with the United States was approved on September 27, 2013. FATCA (Foreign Account Tax Compliance Act) is a new U.S. law initiated by President Obama to prevent U.S. citizens from tax evasion abroad. FATCA wants to force all foreign banks – not only the Swiss – to become agents under U.S. law. Under this agreement U.S. law trumps Swiss law – in total contradiction with national sovereignty. Switzerland would submit to further changes of U.S. tax law without the right of veto and without the possibility of a referendum. Banking secrecy can already be lifted in order to fight tax evasion. Therefore, FATCA is just a means of allowing complete and automatic surveillance of all citizens, even the Swiss; it is a further invasion of privacy. It is high time to say no to these one-sided U.S. claims and to strengthen Switzerland's sovereignty and independence. Therefore, we recommend signing the referendum against FATCA. The deadline is January 16, 2014. The form can be downloaded at www.stop-fatca.ch.

Closing Point •

"When talking about good resolutions for the New Year, how about this: You grow from being a V&C reader to a V&C distributor. As a distributor you are becoming a courier and as a courier you win two - or three - loyal couriers. Wouldn't that be a great idea?"
